

CHAPTER V

CONCLUSION AND RECOMMENDATION

5.1 Conclusion

This study aimed at determining the acts and functions of commissive illocutionary speech act in “Marry Me” movie 2020. The acts of offer and refusal were the most used acts in this movie. It was because this movie not only just about marriage but, this movie also talked about the disharmony relationship between father and daughter. Moreover, the function of convivial was the most used function in this movie. It was because in this movie, there are many utterances that coincides with the social goals that conveyed by a father to his daughter.

Moreover, what the speaker said was very influential on the expression of the hearer. When the speaker uttered an expression, there was a response from the hearer. That means the speaker interacted with the speaker. And it could be concluded, the response from the hearer was not always found in utterances, but in the expression that the hearer displayed when listening to the speaker. It means that from the expression shown by the hearer, the speaker might already understand the response from the hearer.

5.2 Recommendation

After made a conclusion, the researcher finished this research with some recommendation for the next researcher, especially the researcher who wants to study about commissive illocutionary speech act. This research focused on analyzed the acts and functions of commissive illocutionary speech act. There are so many objects of study that can be analyzed by commissive illocutionary speech act theory that introduced by Searle and Vanderveken (1985) such as; movie, novels, speech, song, and others. Hopefully, this research can help the future researcher who interested to categorized the type of commissive illocutionary speech act and also increase their knowledge about pragmatic analysis.

For the student who interested in pragmatics field, especially commissive illocutionary speech act. Hopefully, this research can help the student who interested more in commissive illocutionary speech act to increase their knowledge about this study. And also, the researcher hoped that commissive illocutionary speech act can be applied properly whether for the research or in daily life.