

CHAPTER V

CONCLUSIONS AND RECOMMENDATIONS

5.1 Conclusions

Based on the analysis, it is concluded that figurative language has several types and functions according to Perrine (1996)'s theories. Figurative language in this case, shows that many of them are used for communication in daily activity. This research also confirmed that figurative language appeared in the selected data source and the theories are applicable to be applied. The use of figurative language also can be used to express someone feelings, such as happiness and sadness according to the speaker context. Besides, it also can be used to make the utterance to be more pleasurable. Like characters in "Raya and the Last Dragon" movie, many of them used figurative language for their communication to express their feeling in happiness or sadness even angry.

From the movie analysis, researcher discovered the kinds that mostly appear from the movie was metonymy. Those characters used metonymy expression because in the movie they uttered many kinds of representation of specific clan, things, or group. For the function, researcher found the dominant data that appear was imaginative pleasure. Imaginative pleasure mostly appears in this movie because the characters convey many utterances and gave and additional imaginative pleasure to make readers have visual image representations.

5.2 Recommendations

From the figurative language analysis of Raya and the Last Dragon movie, researcher has some recommendations. These are given to students, readers and future researchers. The students are recommended to take this research as reference in order to provide detailed understanding about the object of this research. It is specifically kinds and functions of figurative language. By having the understanding, students can get additional knowledge beside the knowledge provided by the lecturers and teachers. For readers, they can easily differentiate each kind and functions that contain in every figurative language by reading this research. As for future researchers, they are recommended to take other media as data source. There are a lot of literary work that can be taken as the data source, such as song, poem, poetry, novel, and drama. Future researcher also can use different objectives for their research. The reason is that the objectives regarding figurative language are not only kinds and functions.
