

CHAPTER V CONCLUSION

After finish doing analyze, in this part researcher present the conclusion. In Russia the occupations mostly are peasants and factory worker but only peasant that reflected in Animal Farm novel. Poor condition as the causes of rebellion in Russia are food shortage, starving and weak leadership and those three poor conditions were reflected in Animal Farm novel by George Orwell. Those poor conditions triggering rebellion in Russia and the rebellion give some effects to Russian society that reflected in Animal Farm. The effects of rebellion in Russia are the society become under Tyrannical leadership of Joseph Stalin and crop failure or shortage of food happened in Russia. Those two effects of the rebellion were reflected in Animal Farm novel by George Orwell.

Based on the reflection of occupation as peasant in Animal Farm novel Therefore, Taine theory of milieu was applied in Animal Farm novel. Three poor conditions that triggering rebellion and two effects of the rebellion in Russia that really reflected in Animal Farm novel also show that Taine theory of moment was applied in Animal Farm novel. In the end researcher take conclusion that H. A. Taine theory was appropriate, adequate, and able to be used in analyze literary work which tells about the story of the events in the past.
