

CHAPTER V

CONCLUSION AND SUGGESTION

5.1 Conclusion

After the researcher has done the research, researcher finally can draw this following conclusion. By using hero's journey theory researcher analyze the main character Dorothy adventure. In the departure stage, there are the call to adventure, supernatural aid, and the crossing of the first threshold. Dorothy feels to be off the dull and boring in a Kansas farm. The cyclone then comes to her farm. At first, Dorothy wondered if she would be crashed. The cyclone then carried the Dorothy and her house to the Land of Oz. Next, Dorothy meets her guide for the journey, her name is Glinda. This figure helps Dorothy from the danger while in a journey. Then, Dorothy crosses The Yellow Brick Road. Now hero really separates with her known world.

Next stage hero faces her initiation stages. There are a road of trials, woman as a temptress, atonement with the father, apotheosis, and the ultimate boon. Dorothy has to go alone through the road and the needs of food become her trial. Next, by going through the poppy field, Dorothy face her temptress but able to survive from the evil witch. Then Dorothy reached her next destination called The Emerald City. Dorothy meets the figure father. The figure father is Oz. Oz says he will help her if she kills the witch. After following her father figure suggestion, she gets along with her companion and ready to continue the journey. Now the Dorothy feels that she can finish the journey and nothing can make her afraid again. Finally, the hero finds her goal of the journey. The boon is knowledge by defeating the wicked witch.

After hero successfully finishes all initiation stages, the hero faces the return stage. There are refusal of the return, the magic flight, the crossing of the return threshold, master of the two worlds, and freedom to live. Dorothy is back to her home and lives the rest of her life enjoying with her Uncle Henry and Aunt Em on her farm and doesn't fear about what will happen to her next. Finally, Dorothy now is able to live in both ordinary and special worlds. In the end, Dorothy has finishes all stages and she completed all. Researcher can conclude that Dorothy can be called as a hero. The final conclusion would have to be that The Wonderful Wizard of Oz does indeed conform to Joseph Campbell's theory of the hero's journey, which is in accordance with the essay's hypothesis statement. Future research into this specific topic, the hero's journey in The Wizard of Oz, could focus more on the psychological aspects and development of Dorothy throughout the adventure.

5.2 Suggestion

Based on the analysis presented previously, there are several points could be recommended.

For the readers who are interested in literary work, it is important to know every conflict that happened in the story deeply. Since it helps the readers to comprehend the story, for the students, to determine the conflict is not easy way because there are many kinds of conflict revealed by many authors but they state a different opinion.

Hence, it is suggested for the next researcher who is interested in doing further research in this area to use this analysis as started point in conducting research and there are many aspects of novel in which interested enough to be analyzed, for example the internal conflicts, external conflicts and intrinsic elements of the structural approach such as plot, theme, setting and character.
