

CHAPTER V

CONCLUSION AND SUGGESTION

5.1 CONCLUSION

This study aims to find out the decision-making proces to preserve marriage after her does a love affair. based on research that has been done, then in this section will be further explained the conclusions, and recommendations that can be used to develop subsequent studies.

From the description in the previous chapter, it can be concluded that:

1. Love affair committed by wife is a painful thing for themselves. They also said that the affair happened because factors contained in the subject such as lack of attention or not meet the expectations of the husband. So that all three are willing to repair itself after the affair. Negative emotions like loss confidence, loss of self esteem, disappointment, feel cheated or insulted, came as knowing love affair.
2. Main factors most contribute to maintain marriage is children. Child has a very high value so that the subject was willing to endure even though they have been hurt just because of the child. Another factor contributing is the cost of living. This is because the subject does not have work at the time. Another important factor is the lack of a view bad about the divorce in the eyes of religion, family, or in the eyes community.

5.2 SUGGESTION

Communication and openness about each other's needs can help married couples to restore confidence. Generally, cases of infidelity are the result of unmet needs, so that one party chooses to turn to others for its fulfillment.

Therefore, the discussion on the needs of each become very important in the life of marriage. Do not give up and try as hard as possible to keep in priority to the needs of couples. Agree to a better married life requires the role of husband and wife.

Thus, future research at these will also involve developing a general theory for such evaluation. These topics can be studied at each node in the hierarchy, for any domain. While the hierarchy proposed in this dissertation provides a high level guideline to future research and suggest more specific open question and directions. The writer, hope for the next researcher to continue this research.