

CHAPTER V

CONCLUSION AND SUGGESTION

5.1 Conclusion

The main point of this research is to find out the function of cohesion devices and how the speaker use cohesion device in the speech of The World Press Freedom Day by president of Indonesia, Mr. Joko Widodo. Therefore, based on those two questions the researcher concludes the findings of this research into two primary points. There are two cohesion devices, grammatical cohesion and lexical cohesion.

The first point is the grammatical cohesion. From the analyzing data, the researcher found grammatical cohesion that appeared in the speech, they are reference and conjunction. But the type of substitution and ellipsis there are not occurs in the speech. The functions of grammatical cohesion and the use of grammatical cohesion by the speaker in the speech of The World Press Freedom Day deal with the theory of Halliday and Hassan (1976).

The second point is the lexical cohesion. From the analyzing data, the researcher found lexical cohesion that appeared in the speech, they are repetition, antonymy, synonymy, and hyponymy. But the type of meronymy and collocation not occur in the speech. The functions of lexical cohesion and the use of grammatical cohesion by the speaker in the speech of The World Press Freedom Day deal with the theory of Halliday and Hassan (1976).

5.2 Suggestion

As already mentioned in the previous chapter, the purpose of this research is to analyze cohesion devices include function of cohesion devices and how the speaker use cohesion devices in the speech. The researcher suggest to the next researchers to use this study as a reference in conducting studies in the same field with larger sample and population with different short story or narrative, and they can also study the use of cohesion devices in other sources. Moreover, the researcher also suggests the next researcher not only analyze about cohesion devices, but you can analyzed about coherence in this speech.
