

CHAPTER V

CONCLUSION AND RECOMMENDATION

5.1 Conclusion

One of the phenomena of non-standard language is slang. Slang is a form of language transformation that continues to develop along with changing times. The use of non-standard language is very often heard in today's society. Slang is a part of sociolinguistics because it refers to the meaning or definition of social/society and linguistics or those related to language. Slang words can have positive meanings and can also have impolite, rude and offensive meanings. Slang words can inspire creativity in the use of simple words in informal communication.

Based on the findings and discussion above, the researcher group slang data based on type and function categories. In this thesis, the slang types that the researcher analyzed in the lyric of the songs New Hope Club Band there are 33 data. To analyze slang types using the theory of Allan and Burridge. While the slang function uses Mattiello's theory. The slang types are fresh and creative, flippant, acronym, imitative, and clipping. Meanwhile, the function of the slang words divided into 2 there are Speaker-oriented properties: group and subject-restriction, informality and Debasement, Secrecy and Privacy, Vulgarly and Obscenity, Time restriction, ephemerality, and localism. Hearer-oriented properties: Playfulness and humour, Freshness and Novelty, Desire to impress faddishness, Colour and musicality, Impertinence, offensiveness, and aggressiveness.

33 data types from the total data types, researchers found 1 data for fresh and creative, 24 for flippant, 4 for imitative and 4 for clipping. Flippant is the type of slang that is most often found in this research because this type of slang tends to be relaxed so it is more used by young people, one of which is used in the song lyrics analyzed in this thesis. Meanwhile, the most common slang functions that researcher found in this thesis were freshness and novelty. This function is the most dominant because these slang words tend to be relaxed and far from formality and are often used by young people. Therefore, slang with this function is often found in New Hope Club Band songs because the members of this band are young people. Because the members of the New Hope Club Band are young, slang having this function is frequently found in their songs. The researcher discovered nine bits of information on this slang function. In the meantime, the researcher used eight data to gain additional slang functions, including casual and debasement. The same is true for the restriction group of seven data and the subject slang function. Cutie is one word that alludes to the slang function of informality and debasement.

The results of this study demonstrate that slang is frequently used in communication since it is far from official and informal, particularly when interacting with those closest to you to demonstrate familiarity. Aside from that, this study focuses on the slang employed in song lyrics when communicating with coworkers or other people.

5.2 Recommendation

In the thesis the researcher can give suggestions according to the analysis of the data studied and the conclusions above, some of the suggestions or recommendations are as follows: When using slang, people must pay attention to the situation and the person who are talking to because this slang also contains harsh and offensive words. For further research, it can be analyzed using a different research approach. There are also recommendations for students who are also conducting this research to use different theories and data sources. This is to enrich knowledge and insight about slang in everyday life with a certain group. Although the research has discussed several functions of slang, it is hoped that further research will provide a further description of the use of this slang. This research uses qualitative methods.

This research focuses on the types and functions of slang. This research examines the slang in song lyrics. These findings can be implemented in language learning, especially for understanding language variations. Developing effective communication strategies using slang needs to be done to understand how slang can be used as an effective communication tool. The use of slang in communication needs to be done wisely and considering the context and audience.